COMMENTARY

Market Review

- Asian equities usually perform poorly at the start of monetary tightening cycles. This has happened to Greater China markets so far in 2010, with the MSCI AC Golden Dragon index down by 6.91% YTD due to Euro zone worries, China monetary tightening and the US discount rate hike.

Fund Activity & Outlook

- Cnooc Ltd. contributed positively to Fund performance on strong production growth, while Hon Hai Precision Industry was one of the detractors due to concerns of rising production costs and potential component shortage.

- During the month, the Fund decreased its weighting in Hong Kong. The Fund also initiated a position in Hiti Digital Inc. in view of its high margin on selling consumable products and strong cash position. The Fund also exited its position in China Dongxiang Group on high inventory levels and a slowdown of same store stores in China's sportswear sector.
- We reiterate our view that Greater China is still in a secular bull market but a short term correction is inevitable. This quarter will be led by a slew of year end results announcements which we believe will be achieved on the high end of analysts' estimates.
